WEATHER AND CROP CONDITIONS IN NEW MEXICO
 Week ending June 8, 1914.
 The week was generally favorable with local thunderstorms from Wednesday to Saturday. It was a little too cool in localities for the best growth of corn, cotton and gardens, but excellent for small grains and alfalfa, alfalfa cutting as under way in the central counties. Early planted corn and beans and the winter crop set up in good stands, with irrigation well under way in southern counties. More beans are being planted under favorable conditions. Ranges are fair to good, although feeding more rain in the southeast and southwest counties. Stock continues in good condition. Cantaloupes are blossoming in southern valleys but the fields must wait until the end of the season.
 Beans—Light rain occurred on one day. Corn and ranges are fair.
 Spinners—Range is good and growing rapidly; cultivated fields have abundant moisture and dry farming districts are in good condition, with excellent promise of large yields of wheat, corn, beans and other grains.
 Vegetables—All vegetation growing nicely; pastures good to excellent. Corn in excellent condition; spring wheat fair; much land being planted to beans.
 Lakewood—Large acreage of cotton planted and all up nicely; ranges are improving but need more rain. Gardens are growing nicely.
 Fruit—Corn is up and prospects for a good season; range excellent.
 Quartz—All crops made excellent growth the last week, with plenty of moisture and heat. Pastures and ranges excellent; winter wheat good.
 Espanola—First cutting of alfalfa will begin about the close of the week; range looking extra good. Corn all planted and ground in good shape for germination and growth. Lots of apples left and a few peaches and pears. Spring wheat, oats and barley looking very good; chile good.
 Albuquerque—Season continues to be somewhat backward, owing to cool weather. Expect most crop of grapes, some cherries and part crop of apples, with second spraying beginning.
 Mountains—The showers were heavy. Corn good, wheat and rye excellent, conditions, nice good, the fair, spring wheat fair to good; beans in of good stand, some farmers still planting. Range fair and stock doing well.

 Pecos—Generally favorable for crops, but a little cool for corn and some vegetables, small grains and alfalfa doing well. Beans in good condition and looking under way. Fruit doing well. Summer cattle good.
 Roswell—Much corn looking well but making rather slow growth because of cool weather. Beans only fair and needing more rain for further improvement. The week was unusually cloudy and cool. Cattle showing.
 Tularosa—A good showing of alfalfa with moderate temperatures and all crops doing nicely. Beans and pastures very good; planting about finished.
 Chisnao—Moderate rain and rather cool weather, but week closed better. Corn growing nicely, although not all alfalfa and range not so good because of coolness. Spring wheat is coming nicely.
 Band—Farmers making slow progress, everything behind.
 El Paso—Ranges greatly benefited by showers. Cattle showing in bloom but fields scarce. Cotton chopping in progress. Corn and truck in good condition. Much complaint of labor shortage throughout the valley.
